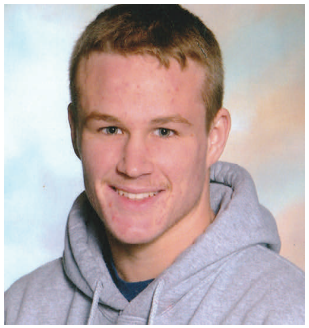
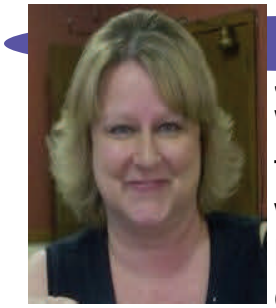
Lorain County needs SOLACE

History of SOLACE

Wes Workman of Portsmouth, Ohio was an 18-year-old football star known throughout his school and community.



He was weeks away from prom and graduation. But tragedy struck, and his family was devastated. His family joined over a hundred other families who lost loved ones to the prescription drug and opiate abuse epidemic.



JoAnna Krohn, Wes's mother, formed SOLACE, whose members have become the catalyst to mobilize communities to change legislation and shut down pill mills.

The Ohio SOLACE Network has been organized:

- To develop support groups for individuals and families grieving a loved one who died as a result of addiction;
- To promote public awareness about addiction;
- To eliminate stigma;
- To develop recovery support through collaboration with the recovery community and communities at large.

SOLACE means:

"to seek comfort."

SOLACE: Surviving Our Losses

And Continuing Everyday

SOLACE Lorain County is a newly-formed chapter of a statewide group seeking to end the crisis of substance abuse, specifically prescription drug and opiate addiction in local communities.

We support individuals and families affected by addiction; advocate for policy changes; and mobilize communities to affect their own change.
